THE FRENCH ART OF SEDUCTION

Four Enticing Gems from the Land of Ooh Lá Lá

La Vie Promise

A film by Olivier Dahan

Isabelle Huppert stars as Sylvia, a weary prostitute who re-connects with her estranged teenage daughter. Fleeing the French Mediterranean, they head north. Desperate not to see her daughter repeat her own mistakes, Sylvia tries to rediscover her once promising past.

"La Vie Promise reminds us that Isabelle Huppert is one of the very great screen actresses."

-Kenneth Turan, LOS ANGELES TIMES

La Désenchantée

A film by Benoît Jacquot

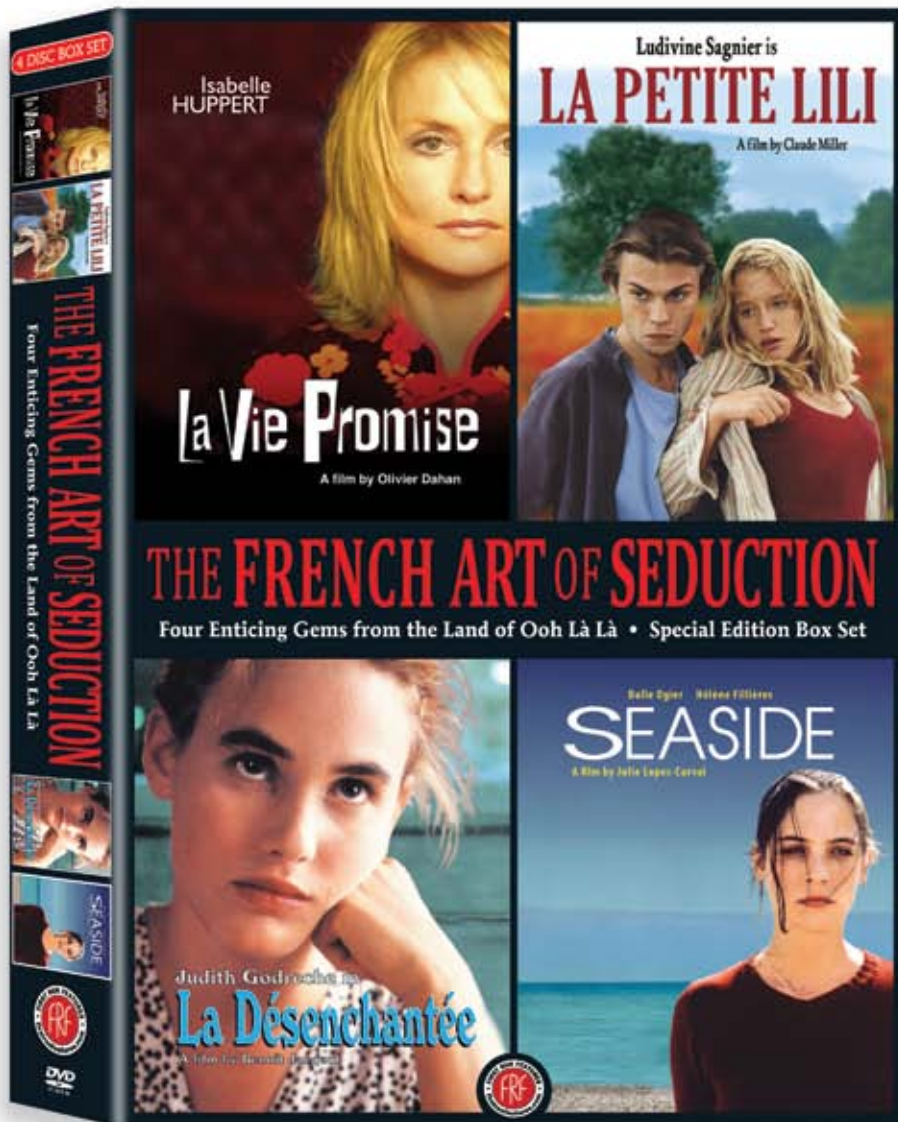

Judith Godrèche plays an enchanting young Parisian girl whose boyfriend, in the middle of a petty argument, dares her to bed the ugliest man she can find, to test her love for him. Taking a simple premise and a beautiful young woman, Benoît Jacquot has created a masterpiece of French cinema.

"A very sexy movie."

La Petite Lili

A film by Claude Miller

Ludivine Sagnier (star of Swimming Pool), is the love and muse of an idealistic young filmmaker in this modern adaptation of Chekov's classic play The Seagull. Beginning with its steamy opening scene, this provocative reinvention of Chekov is "a first-rate piece of cinema." (Chicago Tribune)

"A work of whimsy, passion and visual lushness."

-HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

Seaside

A film by Julie Lopes-Curval

Winner of the prestigious Camera d'Or at the Cannes Film Festival, Seaside is set in a once-fashionable seaside resort town, and revolves around the beautiful Marie. Marie, bored with her life and her clumsy boyfriend, begins to look for romance elsewhere.

"An excellent cast makes Seaside pleasurable viewing."
