2014 THEATRICAL RELEASE

Patagonia, South America, 1960. A German doctor meets an Argentine family and follows them to a small town where the family is starting a new life. Eva, Enzo and their children welcome the doctor into their home and entrust their youngest daughter to his care – unaware that he is one of the most notorious criminals in the world. At the same time, Israeli agents are desperately looking to bring ‘the German Doctor’ to justice.

Based on filmmaker Lucía Puenzo’s novel, the story follows Josef Mengele, the “Angel of Death,” a German SS officer and physician at Auschwitz, in the years he spent hiding (along with many other Nazis) in South America following his escape from Germany. Mengele was one of WWII’s most heinous Nazi war criminals.
