documentary that might rouse viewers to do something.”

-Variety

“A fair-minded, sobering but accessible call to action”

-Wired Magazine

“At once scary and engaging,
Plastic Planet is the best kind of advocacy documentary.”

-Film Journal International

We live in the Age of Plastic. It's cheap, it's practical, and it's everywhere – from the highest mountains to the hottest deserts, from the North Pole to the South Pole. It's even part of us – inside our blood.

Should we be worried?

In the filmmaker-on-screen tradition of Michael Moore and Morgan Spurlock, director Werner Boote takes us on a journey around the globe – from the Moroccan Sahara to the middle of the Pacific Ocean, from a factory in China to the highest peaks of the Alps – to reveal the far-flung reach of plastic. Interviews with the world's foremost experts in biology, pharmacology, and genetics shed light on the perils of plastic to our environment and expose the truth of how plastic affects our bodies...and the health of future generations.
