

20 YEARS AGO THE IRON CURTAIN FELL and THE WALL CAME TUMBLING DOWN... PRESENTING TWO IMPORTANT FILMS FROM THAT TUMULTUOUS TIME

"Another blithe chapter in Ross McElwee's continuing and extremely uncertain relationship with history...Reporting of a most pertinent and genially eccentric order."

-Vincent Canby, NEW YORK TIMES

"★★★★★ Spins an exquisite web that holds one enchanted."

-VIDEO RATING GUIDE FOR LIBRARIES

"A fascinating piece of history - a 'must see' for all history buffs."

-LIBRARY JOURNAL

"Marvelous!"

-RALEIGH NEWS AND OBSERVER

In 1986, Ross McElwee and Marilyn Levine were making a film about the 25th anniversary of the Berlin Wall, when the imposing structure was still very much intact as the world's most visible symbol of harline Communism and Cold War lore. They thought they were making a documentary on the community of tourists, soldiers, and West Berliners who lived in the seemingly eternal presence of the graffiti emblazoned eyesore.

But in 1989, as the original film neared completion, the Wall came down, and McElwee and Levine returned to Berlin, this time to capture the radically different atmosphere of the reunified city.

A LIMITED EDITION, ONE-OF-A-KIND HISTORY OF EAST GERMANY Two Disc Box Set - Six Hours!

"An illuminating history of the German Democratic Republic (1949-1990).
Highly recommended!"

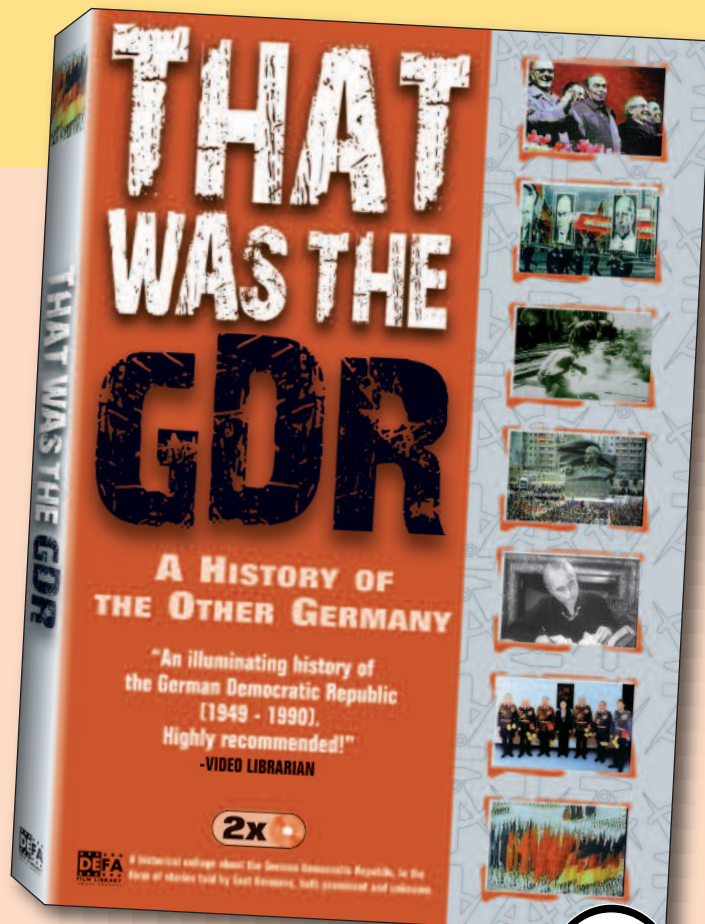

-VIDEO LIBRARIAN

This astonishing chronicle of the German Democratic Republic (or as we called it, East Germany) features illuminating interviews complemented by rare archival materials from film, photographs, posters, caricatures, popular songs and speeches. Former citizens both prominent and unknown reflect on cultural, economic, and political developments from the founding of the GDR in 1949 to German unification in 1990. This is the ultimate film history of events such as the suppression of the Prague Spring in 1968, the rise and fall of the Berlin Wall, economic stagnation, Stasi activity, and the popular upheavals that finally brought down the state.
