

FIRST RUN FEATURES PRESENTS

“This charming film gives a very personal view of growing grapes and making wine. It celebrates the sense of community that they have created.”

- Julia Harding, Master of Wine at Jancis Robinson

“I like the spirit and atmosphere of the film. Congratulations!”

- Jean-Louis Trintignant, Award-winning Actor from Amour

Many of us share the fantasy of moving to a lovely village in the South of France, to find a vineyard, create wonderful wines, to sell it and share it with all our friends. Carole LeBlanc and Jo Béfort, an engaging lesbian couple, have done just that.

Carole and Jo started their wine adventure six years ago in Collias, France. Their dream was to produce excellent wine. They had no experience, just their passion – and friends.

Winemaking is a difficult and labor intensive process, and still a very macho affair. But as this charming film reveals, it is possible for two women who are willing to work hard to make great wine, the old-fashioned way.

“The most mature depiction of a young gay male’s romantic awakening I have ever seen.”

-THE ADVOCATE

“Brings maximum subtlety, nuance and insight into the timeless story of first love.”

-LOS ANGELES TIMES

The sensual gay classic Come Undone explores a young man’s homosexual awakening and the turbulence of first love in a small French seaside town.

Mathieu, a quiet 18-year-old spending the summer with his troubled family, meets the handsome and aggressive Cedric, who takes an interest in the younger man. Mathieu quickly becomes enraptured by his mature lover, who offers him a different world view as well as an escape from his family. But as the summer comes to an end, Mathieu must decide if he means to continue this intense affair.
